Pack Meeting Resources

The Pack Meeting is a time to build positive relationships among the families in the pack. The Cubmaster is the lead in organizing pack meetings and utilizes Assistant Cubmasters, Pack Committee Members, and parents in the pack. Pack meetings should be fun for parents, leaders, and Cub Scouts. Pack meetings can be a special event, based on a Cub Scout Adventure, a time to celebrate, or a time to build your pack community.

Conducting a Pack Meeting

Pack meetings are conducted at a date, time, and location that is best for the families in the Pack. How often and for how long a pack meets is also up to the families in the pack. Den meetings are the most important part of Cub Scouting, pack meetings should supplement and enhance the Cub Scout experience for parents and Cub Scouts. The pack should meet several times a year but not as frequently as den meetings. Each pack meeting should have a clear purpose and be fun and interactive.

Opening Ceremony and Remarks

Conduct a traditional opening flag ceremony.

Opening Remarks

Welcome, Cub Scouts, families, and friends! Tonight, we celebrate an important milestone in the journey of Scouting—the Bobcat adventure. Bobcat is more than just the first adventure in Cub Scouting. It is the first step toward living the values of the Scout Oath and Law, and make friends.

As we gather here, let us remember that every great adventure begins with that first step. For our Bobcat adventure, this is the beginning of a path filled with learning, growth, and fun.

Give directions on den breakouts/den meetings.
